SAVED BY THE DECIBEL

In regards to "The MAD Decibel (dB) Scale" in issue #275: perhaps the loudest sound ever heard was the 1883 eruption of the volcano on Krakatoa Island. It produced a sound intensity estimated at 190 decibels. Your 2,198 decibels produced by MAD readers groaning would generate 1 × 10¹⁹⁹ gigawatts of energy, which is equivalent to innumerable exploding galaxies.

John S. Duckering Odessa, TX

Speaking of hot eruptions, you've obviously never heard Bill Gaines belch after a couple of dogs at Nathan's at Coney Islandi – Ed.

MAKING BOOK

In your "Fat-Book-of-the-Month Club" (Back Cover #275), you forgot the fattest book of all—"MAD FAILURES: Lame Articles from 1987"!! Okay, now try and insult me with some not-so clever comeback like, "We forgot one more: Idiots from Leverett!"

Selanna Reiner Leverett, MA

How little you know us. We've no intention of insulting the fine town of Leverett, Massachusetts. It's your moronic name we take issue with!—Ed.

A FEATHER IN DUCK'S CAP

Now it's time to congratulate longtime MAD contributor Duck Edwing! The Duck (on the right) beat out 1,075 other entrants to nab first place in the 1987 Suburban Newspapers of America's Editorial Awards Contest! Duck's cartoons appear in the Burke/Braddock Connection in Virginia (Edited by Tom Grubisich, left). Great job, Duck! Look how happy he is, look into his eyes ...deep...deeper...you are getting drowsy...your eyelids are heavy...

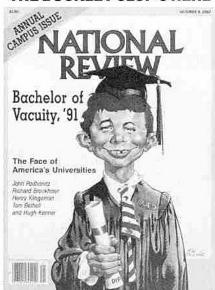

"YOUR PET KNOWS..."

While reading "Your Pet Knows..." in my copy of MAD #275, I discovered there are eight pictures, but only seven captions! I am sure this is just a typographical error, but I'd like to find out what that bird in its cage knows... How about, "...When the cage needs to be cleaned!"

Paul Gallant Rochdale, MA

It's true, some issues of MAD #275 did go out missing a caption. They've already become rare collector's items, worth up to $80,000 on the open market (so we've been told)! By the way, Paul Peter Porges's original caption for that bird hanging upside down is "YOUR PET KNOWS...when your gas heater has a leak!"—Ed.

THE BUCKLEY SLOP'S HERE

MAD's Alfred E. Neuman, drawn by Mort Drucker, made a guest appearance on the cover of the Oct. 9 '87 issue of National Review. There is, however, NO truth to the rumor that a future cover of MAD features NR Editor Wm. F. Buckley, Jr. as "Dr. of Verbosity, '88"!

AN UNUSUAL REQUEST

Please send me a copy of MAD. I've heard good things about it, and I'm very interested. If there's a charge, please inform me.

Marcia Wilderman St. Louis, MO

We've heard good things about you too, Marcia, and we're very interested. If there's a charge, please inform us1—Ed.

MAD READER STRIKES OUT

What does the introduction to "Major League Baseball Rule Changes for the 1980's" in MAD #274 mean? It says, "It's been 56 years since Henry Ford invented baseball in 1947." Everyone knows Henry Ford was our second President. Secondly, baseball was invented by Egyptian parking attendants in the 1600s. Most obviously, it's been more than 56 years since 1947!

Doug Thompson Allendale, MI

Nobody likes a know-it-all. Besides, the "Egyptian Parking Attendant Baseball Theory" is just that—a theory!—Ed.

MERCHANDISE MARKS

Your "Important Announcement" in MAD #275 took me in hook, line and sinker. I honestly expected to see some real ads! The joke was great. I enjoyed seeing William Gaines's picture, too. It always makes me feel good to view someone uglier than myself.

James Halon Seattle, WA

You fool! The ads were real! It's the ugly picture of Gaines that's a phony! — Ed.

Did'ja ever notice how every few months a new advertising campaign for some product or another bursts onto the scene, takes the country by storm and etches itself into everyone's brain? If you have, then you've probably also noticed how these same campaigns just as quickly arouse everyone's disgust until they eventually wither away and return to the dark empty void from whence they came. If you haven't noticed these things, then skip to some other article! The few intelligent and observant people remaining may now enjoy...

STAGES IN THE LIFE OF AN AD CAMPAIGN

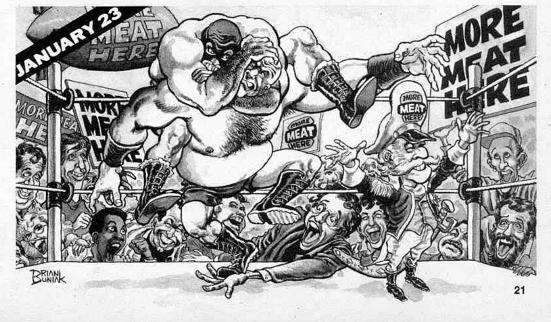

Executives of the McDimple's Hamburger fast food chain announce that the ad agency of Simpson & Hack has been hired to create a new advertising campaign for them. The campaign, featuring the slogan "More Meat Here" spoken by a midget posing as an army general, beat out other proposed slogans, including "From Freshly Killed Cows Right To You!" and "The Home Of America's Biggest Buns!"

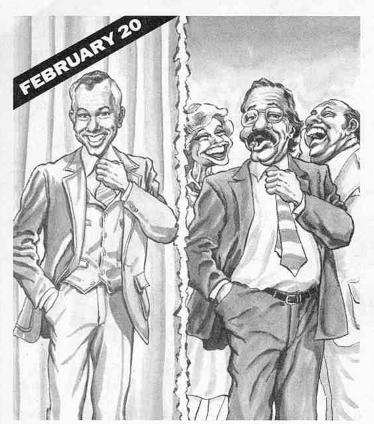

ARTIST: BRIAN BUNIAK

IDEA: MARC I. WHINSTON

WRITER: CHARLIE KADAU

A massive month-long media blitz begins, with 20 million dollars worth of McDimple's ads on TV, radio, billboards, magazines and hamburger-shaped blimps. Simpson & Hack estimates that every man, woman, child and animal in America will be exposed to the "More Meat Here" slogan at least 53 times a day. Also, the midget army general makes an appearance as a guest referee on "Saturday Night's Main Event."

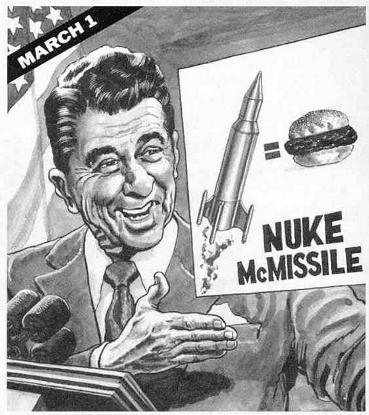

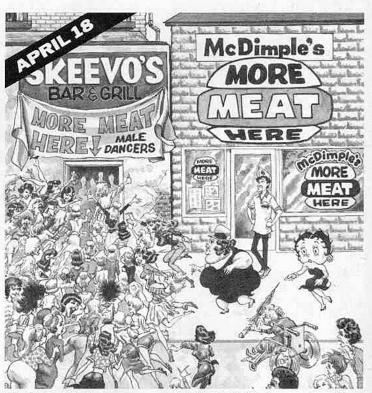

On "The Tonight Show," Johnny Carson uses "More Meat Here!" as the punch line to the next-to-last joke in his monologue. The next day, office comics from coast to coast are repeating both the joke and the slogan. Simpson & Hack is delighted.

Millions of bootleg Korean-made "More Meat Here" T-shirts, hats, key chains and bumper stickers flood the country. A nationwide survey reveals that the midget dressed as an army general is now a more recognizable character than Mickey Mouse.

During an interview, the President uses "More Meat Here" to describe his new defense budget proposal. His quote makes it to all the nightly news shows, and the next day politicians from coast to coast are repeating the slogan. Simpson & Hack is ecstatic.

McDimple's lawyers sue a Toledo, Ohio bar using the "More Meat Here" slogan in promotions for its Friday night ladies-only male dancers show. When the bar's owner proves he was using the slogan a year ago, McDimple's reluctantly agrees to pay him $50,000 so they can use it too. McDimple's lawyers are fired.

Simpson & Hack hastily changes the slogan to "Still More Yummy Meat Here" when figures reveal McDimple's hamburger sales have decreased 43% in the past five months. They assure McDimple's owners that this was part of their strategy all along and that sales will be booming by the summer. A scheduled appearance by the midget army general on "The Late Show with Joan Rivers" is mysteriously cancelled. (The very next day Joan herself mysteriously cancelled, but that's another article!)

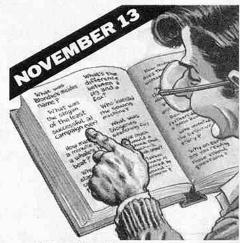

On "Entertainment Tonight," Mary Hart reveals that Barney Spepple, the midget who appears in the Mc-Dimple's commercials, is a vegetarian and has never eaten a hamburger in his life. The next morning, Barney is fired and replaced by an animated zebra.

Anyone who utters the phrase "More Meat Here" at any time and in any situation is groaned at and scorned by their friends and family alike.

As their hamburger sales continue to plummet, McDimple's fires Simpson & Hack and hires the advertising agency of Shmenkin, Berkin & Co. The agency announces McDimple's new slogan will be "From Freshly Killed Cows Right To You."

"More Meat Here" appears as the answer to a question on page 87 of Tom's Big Book of Really Unimportant Trivia.

FRANK ON A ROLL DEPT.

What's new with Michael Jackson? Well, for one thing, he's got a new album out. But the biggest news is not about his music, but about his lifestyle. Some folks call it bizarre; others call it neurotic. We prefer to call it

Big bucks and fame
Really took him far;
He hit the heights—
A su-per star!
To-day it's weird
When peo-ple see
His room-mate's now
A chimp-an-zee.

Far gone! Far gone! Seein' what's goin' on!

He's now kissed off
His clo-sest kin;
His family's out—
His py-thon's in;
He's got no time
For groov-y chicks—
E-lec-tric shocks
Pro-vide more kicks.

Now he hides out in his mansion, Tendin' to his private zoo; Conversation comes more easy With a frog or kang-a-roo.

And it's so sad, so sad—
Far gone!
So very sad he had
to blow it!
He's gone from rad to bad
and thrown it away!
When he gets inside his oxygen tank, ev'ryone can plainly see—
IT'S SAD!

His for-mer face
Just wouldn't do;
Check out his chin—
The cleft is new;
His skin is now
A light-er shade;
His nose and cheeks
Have been re-made;
Now all he needs
Is rouge and gloss
And he'll re-place
Di-a-na Ross.

It's been said he spent a million When he built that shrine to Liz; But we hear his chimp got jealous And wants it to be his.

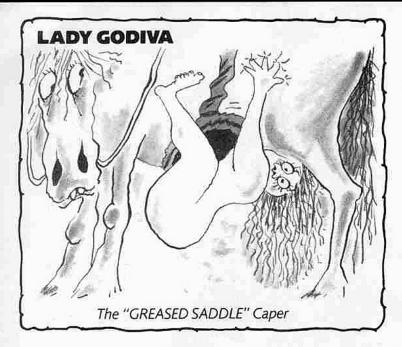

Good grief, it's sad, it's sad—
Far gone!
So awful sad he had
to blow it!
What's left to add? The lad has thrown it away!
And the whole world tries to
today could be—

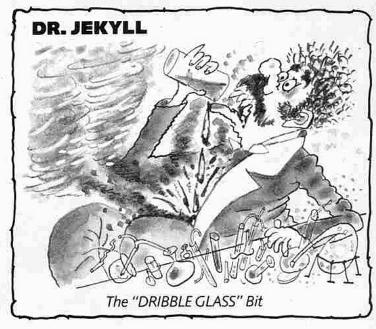

SO SAD!

When the Elephant Man he yearned for, Well, it surely was big news; Now he's out to buy a mummy Or the bones of Howard Hughes.

Egad! It's sad, it's sad—
Far gone!
So downright sad we had to show it!
The life he had, gone bad—
He's thrown it away!
While the whole world tries to
fans agree—
IT'S SAD! IT'S SAD! IT'S SAD!

Please cooperate by answering all of the following questions completely. Your assistance will better enable the new patient now awaiting treatment to diagnose your qualifications for messing around with the only body that he (or she) will ever have.

(P.S. Just this once, try writing legibly, as there is no pharmacist on hand to attempt to decipher your usual childish scrawl.)

- 1. Do you plan to show off by describing my condition to me in complicated medical jargon that you know I can't understand?
- 2. Do you plan to ask for a specimen, and then just stand there and wait, thus making me too nervous to give you one?
- 3. Is your examining table covered with that hard, slick paper that sticks to a person's sweaty body on hot days?
- 4. Do you customarily stick a tongue depressor so far back in a patient's throat that he tends to lose his cookies?
- 5. Will you look in my ear with a flashlight, just so you can get close enough to breathe germs on me that you picked up from your previous patient?

Therefore, please find an employee who can read and write, and instruct him to answer the following. Also, instruct him not to leave dirty smudges on the paper, like those he usually leaves on everything he touches.

- 2. Are credit card holders entitled to such preferential treatment as actually getting new spark plugs when they are charged for them?
- 3. How high must your prices go before you can afford to hire someone to mop your rest room floor once a month?
- 4. Do you plan to raise gas prices again next summer, solely because you know motorists will buy more then, no matter how much it costs?
- 5. Will you continue to lower the octane rating on your unleaded gas until every car requires the premium grade costing 20-cents a gallon more?
- 6. Why does your dealer in my neighborhood insist that I need eight quarts of oil to fill a five-quart crankcase?
- 7. Once I have my credit card, can I be waited on by that cheerful guy who does your TV commercials, rather than the grouch I presently get?

POTENTIAL DEPOSITOR'S REQUEST FOR FULL DISCLOSURE OF BANKING COMPETENCE

This questionnaire is being presented to you by an ordinary working stiff who contemplates entrusting his life savings to your financial institution. Please take a moment to glance around at your employees, and imagine how nervous you would feel giving money to any of them. Then fill out this form in full.

(Note: Your answers to these questions will not be kept any more confidential than you keep the deposit figures of your customers when credit agencies come snooping around.)

- 1. If I have $10,000 in my account, and try to withdraw $50, how many of your people must vouch for my honesty before I get it?
- 2. Are your tellers specifically instructed to go on their coffee breaks whenever there are more than four people waiting in line?
- 3. Do you have one of those drive-in windows where the girl behind the glass can hear everything I say, but I can't hear her at all?
- 4. Why am I allowed only 20 minutes of free parking in your lot when you know that the simplest transaction will take twice that long?
- 5. If you really have $500-million in assets, why can't you afford one workable ball point pen for use in filling out deposit slips?
- 6. Describe how your 73-year-old security guard with the thick glasses and the hearing aid plans to protect my money.
- 7. How many years must I have an account here before at least one of your tellers remembers having seen me before?

PROSPECTIVE EMPLOYER'S APPLICATION FOR JOB APPLICANT'S ACCEPTANCE

This vital form is presented by a potential employee who may soon have to start making changes in his leisurely life-style to go to work for your outfit. Naturally, this raises a lot of questions about your company's worthiness to ask for such a drastic personal sacrifice. Please take ample time to answer all of the following questions fully and truthfully. Failure to do so could result in my missing a chance to go to work somewhere else that has a better deal to offer.

- 1. How many weeks of paid vacation will I get the first year?
- 2. Can I take this vacation time before starting work, and if so, who do I see about getting paid for it in advance?
- 3. Must I actually show up for work at least once before phoning in sick, and starting to collect disability insurance?
- 4. Give names and department locations of three attractive members of the opposite sex who are currently hot to start a new relationship.
- 5. Will someone be assigned to punch my time card for me on days when I am late, or must I make my own arrangements for that?
- 6. List some items of value that employees can safely carry out of the building without being stopped by the guard at the front gate.
- 7. If I start next Monday, how soon can I retire with full benefits?

POTENTIAL COUNTRY CLUB JOINER'S REQUEST FOR MUTUAL DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION

While your Membership Screening Committee is naturally concerned about admitting an applicant whose character, morality and community standing may not measure up to your standards, it is equally true that the applicant presenting this questionnaire isn't sure he wants to associate with you either. Therefore, please be advised that said applicant doesn't intend to write his check for membership fees until your club officials have written their answers to the questions on this form.

- 1. Can I assume that you asked all those personal things about my religion because you want to be sure I don't have any, and will thus be available to play golf with you on Sunday?
- 2. I notice that you've had trouble finding black people who want to join your club. Would you like my help in finding some for you?
- 3. As community leaders, don't you feel obligated to tell the police that club members gamble for real money on your golf course?
- 4. In reference to Question Number 3, shouldn't your police report also mention the gambling in your card room?
- 5. Is that guard at the gate supposed to keep nonmembers from entering, or to keep members from leaving when they're too drunk to drive home?
- 6. What does your Pro Shop do with all the money it makes selling 75-cent golf balls for three-dollars apiece?
- 7. Did you ever stop to figure that I could play 800 rounds of golf a year at a public course for less than you charge in annual dues?

CAMPUS ADMINISTRATORS' STUDENT ACCOMMODATIONS TEST

READ ALL INSTRUCTIONS BEFORE ATTEMPTING TO ANSWER QUESTIONS!

This S.A.T. Exam is being given to selected college administrative personnel and professors by a recent high school graduate who has the tuition money your school needs. Therefore, acceptable answers to all questions are of utmost importance if you hope to enroll this desirable young person. This S.A.T. may determine the whole future course of your life. So don't get nervous and blow it all by choking up.

- 1. Do your dormitories have any Freshman Restrictions, such as a curfew requiring me to be in by breakfast time?
- 2. Is there an adequate number of students of the opposite sex on campus, and, if not, what steps are being taken to correct this?
- 3. Does your library have plenty of dimly lit, secluded corners where I can take a date on occasions when I can't afford a motel room?
- 4. How far off campus (plus or minus one block) is the nearest tavern employing a bartender who never checks I.D.s? _____
- 5. Name at least three potential All-American football players who have signed letters of intent to enroll at your school next fall.
- 6. Are your faculty members specifically instructed not to give hard homework assignments that might interfere with my social life?
- 7. Use this space to give your sworn assurance that you can get me a job paying at least $30,000 a year following my graduation.

NETWORK CORRESPONDUNCE DEPT.

Hi, I'm Rum Reagan, Jr! You remember me—I appeared on Saturday Night Live without my pants! That's why MAD asked me to expose—I mean uncover—some of our country's most influential men. You see them on TV, but you can't always tell if they're wearing pants...no, not the Supreme Court! I mean the guys with real power—TV reporters! Nowadays they do more than just relay news—sometimes they bend, twist, and even create it! They've changed from lowly broadcasters into media superstars. But even a six-figure salary can't hide the fact that they're still just storytellers! And none more so than Mr. Brash Bluster, who's been selected as...

MAD'S TV NEWSREPORTER OF THE YEAR OF THE YEAR WRITER: LOU SILVERSTONE

(Psst!) Brash, why is Mr. Bluster has agreed to Fine! How 'bout it. take time from his hectic he reading his answer? sir? My audience wants Hevschedule and meet with us to hear your candid he's description of what on the job! Brash, let's He's just an anchorman! just begin with a direct question! happens in a high-He's only got to act like like Exactly what goes on in here? powered newsroom! he knows what he's talking my about! He's paid to wear dad! Get him to make-up, not to think! tell you! The newsroom is where great minds knock themselves out trying to keep the public informed at all times! ORID THE NEWSROOM IS WHERE GREAT MINDS KNOCK THEMSELVES OUT TRYING TO KEEP THE PUBLIC INFORMED AT ALL TIMES 111QT DRUCKER

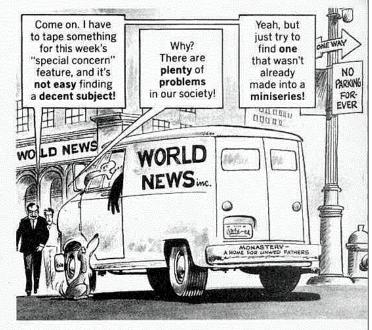

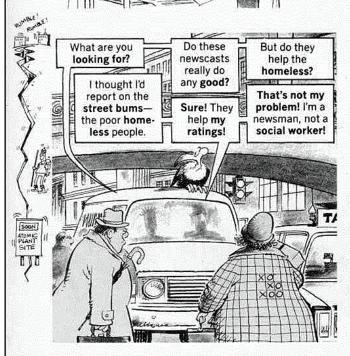

I read that most TV shows are aimed at 14-year-olds. Is that true of news programs?

Not exactly...kids don't watch the news, adults do. We aim at the type who can watch some poor fool get blown up and then run out for a Big Mac-in other words, an adult with the mind of a 14-year-old!

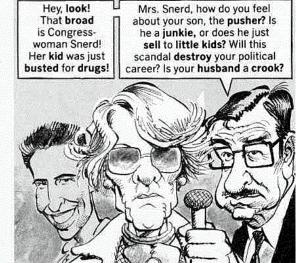

Make sure you get her in the background! Is my makeup okay?...

I'm standing on New York's ritzy east side. Behind me lies one of the homeless. This poor woman might be somebody's mother, yet every night she sleeps on the sidewalk, penniless, hungry and cold! It makes you realize, "there but for the grace of God ... This is Brash Bluster, goodnight.

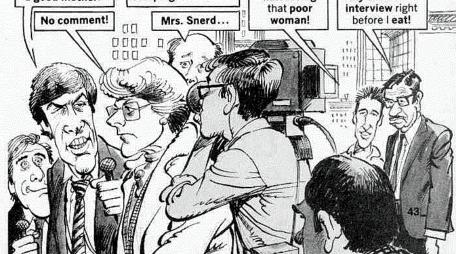

Mrs. Snerd, do you consider yourself to be a good mother?

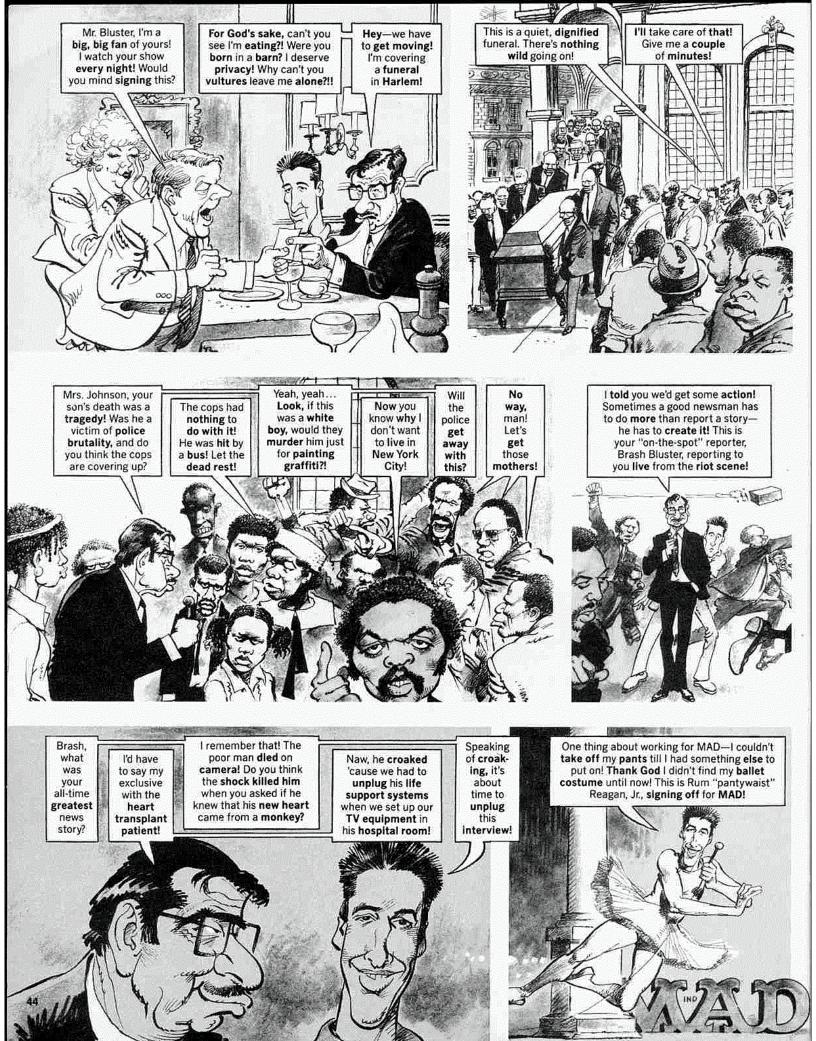

Did you use drug money to pay for your campaign balloons?

the way those guys are harrassing that poor woman!

That's awful,

Yeah! Those heartless slobs are ruining my exclusive interview right before | eat!

BETTER DEAD THAN BLED DEPT.

If you're like us, you're no doubt waiting with gleeful anticipation for Hollywood to stop producing all those needless and boring movie sequels and just let them die off! Well,

THE MOVIE SEQUEL

Its corpse is rotting
in the ground;
Its spaced-out days are through;
It fought to stay alive, but found
The Force was fed up, too!

These wimps are like dead herring now;
No more do they survive;
Which makes no
diff'rence anyhow—
They looked the same alive!

A CONTRACTOR OF THE PARTY OF TH

His final flick was such a bore
He crashed down from the sky,
Thus giving proof forever more
Man wasn't meant to fly!

Some say that it was suicide, but others disagreed;
We only know when Hitchcock died
Its death was guaranteed!

ARTIST: BOB CLARKE

WRITER: FRANK JACOBS

even though most of these movie series are still very much alive and kicking, we at MAD want to let them know we have some choice plots of ground ready and waiting for them in...

GRAVEYARD

STAR TREK

No Klingon killed
these spacemen bold
Or dumped their bodies here;
But when they beamed down
fat and old,
We knew the end was near!

POLICE ACADEMY

Good riddance to these hopeless clowns
With all their stupid gaffes;
Check out the crime in real-life towns—
You'll see why no one laughs!

FRIDAY THE 13"

A Nightmare ON ELM STREET

Each time we swore
this pair had died,
They came back from the brink;
But now the fact can't be denied—
They're dead for sure...we think!

ROCKY

We could have left these sequels here,
But dug them up instead;
We had to think of Sly's career—
Without them, he'd be dead!
